

PASTOR QUILTS PREACHING TO BE POLICEMAN

W. B. McGlamery, of Pennington Gap, Va., Takes Gun and Club to Chase Satan.

PROMISES TO 'CLEAN' TOWN
Issues Statement Urging All
Law-Abiding Citizens to Co-operate With Him.

BRISTOL, Tenn.—Va., Dec. 17.—W. B. McGlamery, newly appointed chief of police of Pennington Gap, Va., after several years as a minister of the gospel has reached the conclusion that a policeman's club and revolver are more effective weapons against Satan than sermons, so he has quit the pulpit, and is now using more direct means to compel the citizens of Pennington Gap to walk the straight and narrow path.

Becoming discouraged with his efforts to make the town better by preaching three or four sermons every week, Mr. McGlamery asked for the place of chief of police and got it. He has quit preaching forever, he says, because he has found that he can make more genuine Christians in a week by strict enforcement of the law than he could by preaching for a year. The citizens of Pennington Gap are pleased with the selection of Mr. McGlamery as chief of police, and declare conditions improved within twenty-four hours after he took office.

Issues Statement.
In assuming the duties of office the new chief issued a statement in which he briefly set forth the reasons which prompted him to ask for the post. This statement follows:

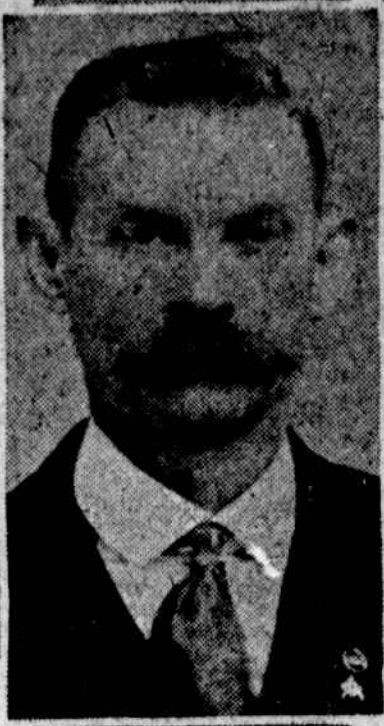

"I am ready and anxious to do everything humanly possible to enforce the law in Pennington Gap, and all that I ask is that the citizens of the town co-operate with me. It is my intention to be absolutely honest and above board in all dealings with those who obey the law and those who violate it. I mean to serve the people earnestly. They need have no fear when their wives and daughters are on the streets and they will not meet the devil when they start home.

"My task in putting down the Bible and taking up the duties of public office is not an easy one. My motto will be justice to all and special privilege to none. I think it is the duty of every law-abiding citizen to volunteer like soldiers to help keep the devil away from this place. It can and must be done. Many a time at night while you have been asleep in your homes I have walked the streets and witnessed Satan set his traps to snare your boys and your girls. Many a playhouse has been torn up by his plottings, but things will be different now."

Promises "Clean Town."
Since taking the oath of office and starting his program of "cleaning up the town," Chief McGlamery declares the Gap has been rid entirely of bootleggers and moonshiners.

"I have already sent a number of them to the county prison camps," he said. "I have had to hurt no one, and I have more friends than ever. I am starting at the job from the bottom, and it is my plan to keep at it until conditions are rectified."

Dresses as Husband to Find Bootleggers

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Dressed in her husband's coat and trousers, with his hat pulled over her face, Mrs. Emily Pittelkow visited the suspected source of his supply of moonshine.
"Herman Pittelkow is sick, and I want to get a pint for him," said the "man," appearing at the kitchen of her neighbor, Mrs. Mary Wolnicki. Mrs. Wolnicki and her son, Joseph, sold her the whiskey, Mrs. Pittelkow says.

GUM AIDS ROBBERS IN LOSTING GARAGE

Novel Way is Found to Make Impression of Key.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—How chewing gum was used to obtain an impression of a key for a robbery was described at Wood Green police court when Frederick Lee appeared charged with stealing a motorcycle.

Two other men, named Edes and Marriott, were charged with him. Lee told the police that he and Edes were caught in a thunderstorm and invited by a woman to shelter in the garage. Edes pointed to the key of the garage and said:

"Get a print of it."
Lee confessed that he went to a shop, bought some chewing gum, chewed it up and got an impression of the key. Some days later a key was made and all three went to the garage.
Lee was sentenced to six months' imprisonment at hard labor. The other two were bound over.

English Minister Pays Tax After 'Prison Term'

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Rev. G. B. Borrell, of Islington, has just paid his taxes, a commonplace enough to do, but for Mr. Borrell this involved the end of a self-imposed imprisonment in his own house for ten months to keep from having a process served.

He considered the tax assessment exorbitant and declined to pay at once, but gave his word that he would pay as soon as he got the money. For ten months he remained indoors to avoid having a process served, a detail of policemen being on duty outside his house part of the time, hoping to serve the process if he stroled out.

Hubby's War Game Too Strenuous, She Complains

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Gertrude A. Greenidge, twenty-two years old, has returned to her parents home in Cambridge.
Mrs. Greenidge declared her husband insisted on playing war and that she was obliged always to play the part of the Germans. Every night he would cry "Over the top and start punning her." "Up and at them" was another favorite war cry which always resulted in Mrs. Greenidge getting the worst of it.
